Welcome to Washington University in St. Louis! Whether you are a returning student or new to our community, we are happy you are here. We also welcome the parents and families of our students and thank them for their interest and support. Washington University is a world-class institution that is committed to developing the next generation of young people to become outstanding leaders in society.

My colleagues and I are committed to providing an environment that will fully support the growth of our students, with abundant cultural, social, and educational opportunities for all. Our distinguished faculty is prepared and ready to guide our students and challenge them intellectually.

This is an exciting time in the history of Washington University. The Class of 2019 was selected from a large, diverse, and immensely talented applicant pool. On this journey, they will learn, discover, and mature, and what they experience during their time here will prepare them for the rest of their lives.

We hope you will find this Parent & Family Resource Calendar useful to keep informed about important events and deadlines, and also as a reference tool to find information on academics, campus life, finances, the campus community, and important contacts.

Thank you for everything you have done to prepare your daughters and sons for academic achievement at Washington University. The faculty and staff are your partners in helping to realize the full potential of your student.

We look forward to a productive and fulfilling year, and we welcome you to the Washington University family!

Mark S. Wrighton
FROM RISA ZWERLING WRIGHTON

The chancellor and I understand that you trust us to take good care of these precious young people, and we take this responsibility very seriously. Having sent our own children off to college, I know that this very exciting time can also be a time of apprehension. For many of you, it is the first time your son or daughter will be living away from home. I remember when my oldest was a freshman; she was so happy to get an invitation for dinner at the home of one of her professors for a holiday celebration. It was a transforming moment in her adjustment to being away from home.

It was my daughter’s experience that prompted me to start Home Plate 15 years ago. I personally match our students with local families so they can experience a home-like atmosphere away from home. They enjoy a home-cooked meal and make a meaningful connection with a St. Louis family. The families love being involved in the life of the university, and in many cases are missing their own college-age children. Many families have developed warm relationships with their students and have hosted them throughout their undergraduate experience and beyond!

If you hear a little homesickness in your child’s voice, that may be a great time to remind them about Home Plate. Many students sign up not only to experience a touch of home, but also to meet interesting people. With more than 300 families participating, I can frequently find a family that has interests in common with your student. I typically assign students in groups of three or four to make it more comfortable to meet their Home Plate family for the first time. It works beautifully. To join Home Plate, your student can visit homeplate.wustl.edu, email homeplate@wustl.edu, or call me at (314) 726-3106. I will personally be in touch with each student.

Thank you again for entrusting your children to Washington University. We will do everything we can to help make these four years the best they can be. My best wishes for a great year.

FROM LORI WHITE VICE CHANCELLOR FOR STUDENTS

On behalf of all of my colleagues at Washington University, we welcome you to the 2015–2016 academic year. Whether you are a family that is new to our community or returning, we look forward to sharing the coming year with you.

For those of you new to the university, your student may be your first to attend college, or you may have experienced this undertaking before. Either way, your student’s time at WashU is certainly something you have anticipated with many emotions. We hope you feel great pride in your student’s accomplishments.

WashU is filled with dedicated faculty, administrators, and staff who are committed to helping your student succeed. While this is a challenging environment, it is also a supportive one. Your student will undoubtedly face many adjustments during his or her time in college, including how best to master time management, given the many opportunities available in and out of the classroom. Fortunately, the university has excellent resources and services to support your student and assist with whatever challenges may arise.

As a family member, you can encourage your student to utilize the resources available at Washington University. The Parent & Family Resource Calendar is a guide to these resources, whether in academics, athletics, campus services, university life, or life in St. Louis. Please keep this calendar handy for reference throughout the year. You will receive a new calendar each year while your student attends WashU. Additionally, regular updates appear online on two websites we highly recommend: parents.wustl.edu and firstyear.wustl.edu.

Congratulations to you and your WashU student. We all extend our very best wishes!
The arrival of new students on campus is a major event and Bear Beginnings: New Student Fall Orientation helps kickstart their four years of friendship and learning. During Bear Beginnings, freshman floors unite to compete in a variety of competitions during WUFC (WashU Ultimate Floor Challenge), a fun evening event held in the Athletics Complex.

together people, programs, and resources to provide an undergraduate experience of exceptional quality where we come to know each student by name and story, and where we help them prepare for lives of purpose and meaning.

The First Year Center sponsors Bear Beginnings: New Student Fall Orientation,
Parent & Family Orientation, Pre-Orientation, programs to engage students with faculty outside the classroom, and Parent & Family Weekend. The First Year Center serves as the point of contact for all information you or your student may need to know about the transition to Washington University.

Please visit firstyear.wustl.edu, email firstyearcenter@wustl.edu, or call us at (314) 935-5040 for information about our programs or questions about campus resources.

PARENT PROGRAMS
Our parents and families serve as valued partners in the student experience at Washington University. Parent Programs Staff serve as your liaison with WashU by providing resources, facilitating engagement opportunities, and empowering families
wishing to make an impact on the university.

Contact Parent Programs to learn more about events and programming in your area, assisting the Alumni & Parent Admissions Program, expanding Career Center services by hiring and mentoring WashU students, and including the university in your philanthropic priorities.

ACADEMIC RESOURCES CORNERSTONE
Cornerstone: The Center for Advanced Learning
helps your student improve learning skills, make a successful academic transition to college, and master material in courses. Group learning is emphasized in most programs, giving students the opportunity to learn from each other and understand the material more fully. Cornerstone offers many resources, including study groups, academic mentors,
walk-in service at help desks, residential peer mentors, skills development workshops and advising, intensive review programs, a technology laboratory, and individual and group study areas.

DISABILITY RESOURCES
Disability Resources, located in Cornerstone:
The Center for Advanced Learning, provides resources for students with disabilities and suspected disabilities. It is important for incoming students and their families to know that the laws governing disability status eligibility differ between high school and college. To be eligible in college, students must have an impairment that substantially limits them in a major life activity in comparison to most people. Disability Resources (DR) helps students determine whether they are eligible.
DR is the official resource for students with learning, attention, visual, hearing, psychiatric, mobility, or medical disorders. Students can visit the DR website to review the requirements for documenting their disability and requesting accommodations, as well as some examples of common accommodations. Students should submit their documentation well before course registration to be sure there is no delay in getting accommodations once classes begin.

LIBRARIES
Washington University Libraries, which include the John M. Olin Library and 11 school and departmental libraries, contain some of the finest research collections in the nation. Using the Libraries’ website, anyone can check hours of operation and special events, search the catalog, learn about Special Collections, and study digitized images of historic documents.
Additionally, family members, alumni, and other users will find links to a number of librarian-recommended, freely available resources. library.wustl.edu.

LIVING ON CAMPUS
BEAR BUCKS ACCOUNT
Bear Bucks is an optional, cashless system for purchasing select on- and off-campus services.
These include residential laundry, select vending machines, printing, campus dining locations, and select off-campus restaurants.
Bear Bucks may be used at several on-campus
businesses, such as the Campus Bookstore, Edison Theatre, Bear Necessities, and a variety of student group events and activities. Bear Bucks are accessed through the WUSTL student ID card, the same card used for identification, building access, and the meal plan. 98% of all undergraduate students have Bear Bucks.

Students can initially purchase Bear Bucks on their housing application and manage them through WebSTAC. Funds remain available until the student leaves the university. “Guest Deposit” is a feature that gives parents, relatives, or friends the ability to purchase Bear Bucks for a student online using a debit or credit card. card.wustl.edu

KNOW “WHERE TO GO” IN AN EMERGENCY
Washington University is committed to protecting the safety and security of our Students...
SAFETY
To foster your student’s independence, the university works to provide a safe and secure environment in a number of ways. Resident advisors and other university staff encourage students to be conscious of their personal security. Through publications, special workshops, and residential floor meetings, students become knowledgeable about a variety of issues, such as personal safety, alcohol abuse, and sexual harassment, including sexual violence.

The Washington University Police Department (WUPD) provides on-campus law enforcement and security services. University police officers are deputized by the St. Louis County Police Department. These officers patrol the Danforth Campus and the residence house areas 24 hours a day, responding to all emergencies and requests for assistance. As an additional measure of safety, Washington University has a system of more than 300 blue-light emergency telephones. Phones located on campus call directly to the Washington University Police; phones off campus call the local police department through a 911 operator. When an emergency phone is activated, an officer is immediately dispatched to the location.

To address safety issues proactively, WUPD provides the following services: free safety whistles; Operation ID, an identification program to mark and catalog personal property; free bicycle registration and reduced-rate sales of high-security bicycle locks; “CLUB” steering wheel locks; RAD: Rape Aggression Defense, a self-defense course offered to both men and women; Bear Patrol, a student-led service that provides escorts and additional security on campus; and a computer anti-theft program called “STOP tag.”

SPRING HOUSING SELECTION FOR RETURNING STUDENTS
The spring housing selection process for returning students can be a stressful time. Choosing roommate(s) and determining housing options are two important decisions that your student must make. You can assist with this process by encouraging your student to be well-informed. Suggest that he or she attend a housing information forum and read important information available on the Residential Life website. If your student has any questions about the process, suggest that your student meet with a staff member in the Office of Residential Life. It is very important that students are aware of and meet all housing selection deadlines.

Returning students have a variety of Residential Life-managed housing options available to them. Some students choose to remain residing in one of the residential colleges located on the South 40; others decide to participate in the small group housing (BLOC) program located at the Village; others prefer an apartment located either on the Danforth Campus or in the adjacent neighborhoods. If your student is a member of a fraternity, he may choose to reside in his chapter’s house along with other members. In addition to Residential Life and Greek Life housing options, returning students may choose to reside in a university-owned off-campus apartment managed by Quadrangle Housing Co.

The Apartment Referral Service (ARS) is another valuable resource for determining availability, location, and costs. Each year, approximately 30 percent of our undergraduate students live in off-campus housing. Many upperclassmen report that apartment living provides them with an opportunity to assume more responsibility for their lives before they graduate.

Finally, Washington University students report that choosing whom to live with is a far more important decision than choosing where to live. (314) 935-5050; reslife.wustl.edu

STUDENT HEALTH
Student Health Services (SHS) is proud to offer comprehensive, state-of-the-art health care services to the students of Washington University’s Danforth Campus by offering medical services, mental health services, and health promotion services.

It is important for all students to have a health insurance plan that provides comprehensive medical and mental health coverage while at the university. Students are required to carry a health plan that meets a set of criteria for coverage that is in compliance with the Affordable Care Act regulations. Students who do not meet waiver criteria on their current insurance plan or do not have insurance available to them may purchase the student health insurance plan. See our website for detailed information on the health plan available for students and their dependents, as well as criteria to waive out of the student health plan; and also for instructions for signing up for the student health plan, providing proof of existing coverage, or for waiving the plan. CAMPUS LIFE
STUDENT INVOLVEMENT AND LEADERSHIP
There is a club, cause, project, team, or group for every student at Washington University—and Student Involvement and Leadership is available to support them all. For many Washington University students simply participating will not be enough; they want to lead.

Students interested in exploring leadership development opportunities and creating positive change can take part in programs such as the Women’s Leadership Experience, Emerging Leaders, Greek Emerging Leaders, Redefining Community Experience, and LeaderShape.

STUDENT TECHNOLOGY SERVICES
Student Technology Services (STS), a division of Information Services & Technology, provides access to and support of student technology services, including wired and wireless networking, cable TV, residential computer labs, student technology programming, employment opportunities, and a student-staffed help desk. (314) 935-7100; sts.wustl.edu
CAREER CENTER
From exploring summer career possibilities to seeking post-graduate opportunities, all undergraduate students are welcome to take advantage of what the Career Center has to offer. Students benefit when parents and family members discuss and support the importance of meaningful summer experiences, offer guidance on networking, share expertise, and hire WashU talent. For more information, call (314) 935-5930, email careers@wustl.edu, or visit careercenter.wustl.edu.

FINANCES

STUDENT FINANCIAL SERVICES
Student Financial Services provides financial assistance and counseling to Washington University students. Students may apply for financial assistance, ask questions about or pay their student accounting invoice, receive assistance with budget planning, search for outside scholarships, and seek part-time employment. A counselor is available for walk-in appointments Monday–Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. in Room 75 of North Brookings Hall. (314) 935-5900 or 1 (888) 935-6670; sfs.wustl.edu

student accounting
The Office of Student Accounting is responsible for the distribution of accurate information relating to a student’s financial account at Washington University. The primary function of the office is to issue e-statements, receive payments, disburse refunds, produce 1098-T forms, and provide the means to help understand various aspects of a student account. Students may access their billing information on the WebSTAC site at acadinfo.wustl.edu, under Billing Records, Pay/View My Bill. They may also invite their guardians to view their billing statements under My Profile, Invite Other Payer. 1 (800) 758-0050 or (314) 935-5274; studentaccounting.wustl.edu. Making a Difference:
Parent Support Enhances the WashU Experience

Washington University delivers a world-class undergraduate education and experience in large part due to generous support from parents, alumni, and friends.

Year after year, annual giving has an immediate impact on university priorities, including:

- Enhancing our need-based scholarship programs
- Investing in our distinguished faculty
- Facilities and technology to support teaching

Every gift matters and we encourage you to support Washington University through your philanthropy by making a gift online at gifts.wustl.edu.
