The Jubel Family

Henry A. Jubel, who immigrated to the United States from Germany with his family, enrolled at Washington University in 1936. A scholarship, his mother cleaning homes, and working at several jobs allowed him to earn a bachelor’s degree in mechanical engineering in 1940. He launched his own business, Spartan Aluminum Products, in Sparta, Ill., in 1961, building it into a highly successful manufacturing company. The School of Engineering honored him with its Alumni Achievement Award in 1997.

Henry Jubel established the Spartan Light Metal Products, Inc. Scholarship in 1998. Since then, the Jubels and their company have endowed additional scholarships in the engineering school. Henry’s son Donald, BS ’73, and his wife Karen sponsor an annual scholarship in engineering as well.

The Jubel family’s history has been intertwined with Washington University for generations. Don and his daughter Lindsey, BS ’09, MS ’09, are both mechanical engineering graduates of Washington University. Like his father, Don Jubel received an Alumni Achievement Award from the engineering school, in 2008. He also received the Distinguished Alumni Award in 2010. Don is the chair of the Alumni Board of Governors for 2013-14.

The Henry A. Jubel Eliot Society Challenge was created in memory of a loyal and generous Washington University engineering alumnus. This challenge is funded through the Henry A. Jubel Foundation whose mission is to support young people seeking to improve their lives through higher education. The legacy of Henry A. Jubel lives on through his family, who are dedicated to honoring Mr. Jubel’s passion of giving back through education to provide deserving students the gift of learning.

How Eliot Society Gifts Are Used

The Eliot Society provides more than 75 percent of all Annual Fund support for Washington University. Your gift will support the goals of Leading Together: The Campaign for Washington University and help the School of Engineering & Applied Science:

- Increase support for scholarships, graduate fellowships, undergraduate research, international study, and student projects.
- Attract the best qualified students from diverse backgrounds, regardless of their financial circumstances.
- Offer internships, career advising and free tutoring for students.
- Enhance instructional lab equipment.
- Expand engineering courses to keep up with fast-changing technology.
- Recruit and retain top professors.

How the Challenge Works

Annual Fund gifts of $1,000 or more qualify you for Eliot Society membership. The Henry A. Jubel Eliot Society Challenge offers new donors the opportunity to join the Eliot Society and support the Engineering Annual Fund with a starting gift of only $500.

All Jubel Challenge gifts must be designated to the School of Engineering & Applied Science.
